Dear Julia,

May 16, 2000

It's been two months since I came to England. I have settled down and started to like the life here. I have made several new friends. They are from different countries: Japan, Germany, and Russia. English is the only language we can use for communication. These friends are my classmates, and we also live in the same house. So we are 18 all day — studying, playing basketball and going shopping. It's very interesting to go to the supermarket. People from different countries enjoy different foods. Some of the foods are very 19 to me.

Could you come to England for a vacation this summer? You would love to meet my new friends.

Mrs. Kao couldn't sleep well. How could she? Winnie said she would be home before eleven, but it was almost twelve. Where was she? Mrs. Kao called her on her cell phone. No one answered. She got out of bed, put on a jacket, and went to the living room.

Terry walked out of his room and asked, "What's wrong, Mom? Oh, is Dad coming home tonight?" "No. Tomorrow. I'm waiting for your sister." Terry went back to his room and studied. He had a very important exam the next day.

"Terry is a good boy," Mrs. Kao thought. "He's three years younger, but I seldom need to worry about him."

Ten minutes later, the telephone rang. "I'm so happy to hear your voice. Where are you? ... I'm happy that you called. No, don't take the taxi. Stay at the door of the theater with Maggie. I'll come and drive you and Maggie home. Don't worry. I'll be there in about ten minutes." Mrs. Kao took the car key and went out.
